III. PRONUNCIATION AND GRAMMAR DRILLS

Tape No; ll-B

A. Pronunciation Drill

I. The Semivowels ou and u

Compare the following paired words:

pou pwa

ou jwi

The second member of each pair contains a sound similar to the initial sound of English 'w' as in win. Creole /w/ often occurs between a consonant and a vowel. In that position be careful not to give it too much length.

Practice the following words containing the semivowel /w/:

kwè pwa wè mwen jwenn

bwè fwa pwason bezwen swasant

vwateru o revwa jwenn

Read the following items aloud. Be sure to produce /w/ in one syllable.

pwen wi twa lwe pwason ou ap wè n-ap jwe aswè-a swasant

twa fwa sa ou ap bwè

When it occurs before the vowels o, ò, on and oa (vowels produced with the lips rounded) the consonant r sounds almost like w.

Practice pronouncing r before rounded vowels.

ròb rouj ro roti roma Robè

Read the following utterances aloud.

ront rout ròb biro roma sitron

Yon bèl ròb rouj.

Li rele Robè.

Ki kote m kap jwenn biro-a?

When it occurs before another vowel, the vowel u is a semivowel; that is, it is pronounced as a single syllable with the following vowel.

Practice:

uit	lannuit	biskuit	kontinue	minuit
zegui	pui	kuit	luil	bui
suiye	tuil

2. The semivowel y

Compare the following pairs:

e	ye
o	yo

The second member of each pair begins with the sound /y/, which is nearly identical to the first sound of English you.

Now compare the following pairs:

pe	pye
ben	byen

The second member of each pair contains the sound /y/ functioning as a semivowel. That is, it occurs between a consonant and a vowel and forms a single syllable with the vowel that follows. When it occurs in that environment the sound /y/ will be spelled with i. Elsewhere, and when the vowel which follows is i, it will be spelled with y.

Practice the following items which contain y functioning as a consonant or semivowel:

ye	yo	pye	byen	Dye
blye	voye	genyen	anyen	kay
bay	bway	kokoye	bagay	touye
lafyèv	babay

Read the following utterances aloud:

yo	yanm	youn	byen
msye	Dye	kay	bay
fi	voye	blye	yo ye
ayisyen	teyat	dènye	vwayaj
bagay	lafyèv	reparasyon	Petyonvil
touye	anyen

Practice the following sentences:

Yo genyen yon fi.
Genyen kamyonèt an fas Bank Nasyonal.
Yo voye anpil bagay aswè-a.
Msye blye li ta vle ale Petyonvil.

Read the following sentences aloud:

Yo genyen yon pitit fi.
Ou wè Bank Nasyonal la.
Li voye anpil bagay bay fanmi ni.

V. GRAMMAR NOTES

A. Conditional Particle ta

1. The verb particle ta is used to indicate that an action or state is conditional, present or past. Compare:
 - a. Li antre nan kay la. He enters (entered) the house.
versus
 - b. Li ta antre nan kay la. He would enter the house.
or
He would have entered the house.
2. In sentences with 'if' clauses, the conditional particle ta is used in the main clause and the past particle te in the 'if' clause. Example:

M ta manje nan restoran sa-a si m te genyen anpil lajan.

I would eat in that restaurant
if I had a lot of money.
or
I would have eaten in that restaurant if I had had a lot of money.

B. Past Completive or Past Perfect Particle te

1. In Lesson 8 we have seen that a verb occurs in the simple form to denote an action which took place in the past but which impinges on the present. Example:

Li sòti.

He's gone out.

2. While the person under discussion may have gone out several days ago, the speaker views the action with reference to the present. We may infer from the use of the past completeive particle te that the person under discussion has gone out some time in the past and has since returned; i.e., that the action or state of affairs is completely terminated.
Compare:

Li sòti

He's gone out.

Li te sòti.

He had gone out.

3. When the subject is followed by an adjective, an adverb, a place, a location, or the verb kennen (konn) without any particle, it expresses only the present. In that case, to express the past, the particle te is invariably used.
Example:

a. M malad.

I'm sick.

M te malad.I was sick.

b. Tout ti-moun yo isit.

All the children are here.

Tout ti-moun yo te isit.All the children were here.

c. M kennen (konn) sa.

I know that.

M te kennen (konn) sa.I knew that.

or

I had known that.

4. When the particle te is followed by one of the particles ap, ape, apral, and aprale, it is shortened to t and expresses a progressive action in the past.
Example:

a. M t-ap (ape) manje.I was eating (or) I had been eating.b. M t-apral (aprale) manje.I was going to eat.

5. In the negative form, the particle te preceded by is is shortened to t.

Example:

a. M pa-t pale kreyòl.

I didn't speak Creole.

I had not spoken Creole.

b. M pa-t wè yo.

I didn't see them.

I hadn't seen them.

c. M pa-t malad.

I was not sick.

I had not been sick.

d. Yo pa-t isit.

They were not here.

They had not been here.

6. The negative past progressive form is expressed by the particles pa t-ap, in that order. Example:

a. M pa t-ap manje.

I was not eating.

I had not been eating.

b. M pa t-ap vini.

I was not coming.

I had not been coming.

7. When t-ap and pa t-ap are used in sentences without verbs or with the verb kennen (konn), they stand for ta ap, pa ta ap, not for the progressive te ap, pa te ap, and express the conditional past or present in the affirmative and negative forms. They are interchangeable with the simple conditional particle ta, pa ta. Example:

Sentences:

a. M t-ap malad.

Both mean:

or

M ta malad.

I would be sick.

or

I would have been sick.

b. M t-ap la.

I would be there.

or

M ta la.

or

I would have been there.

c. M t-ap Pòtoprens.

I would be in Port-au-Prince.

or

M ta Pòtoprens.

or

I would have been in Port-au-Prince.

- d. M t-ap konn sa.
or
M ta konn sa. I would know that.
or
I would have known that.
- e. M pa t-ap malad.
or
M pa ta malad. I wouldn't be sick
or
I wouldn't have been sick.
- f. M pa t-ap la.

M pa ta la. I wouldn't be there.
I wouldn't have been there.
- g. M pa t-ap Pòtoprens.
or
M pa ta Pòtoprens. I wouldn't be in Port-au-Prince.
or
I wouldn't have been in Port-au-Prince.
- h. M pa t-ap konnen.
or
M pa ta konnen. I wouldn't know that
or
I wouldn't have known that.
8. The particles ap and p-ap express the future in the affirmative or negative form. The particle a also expresses the future, but in the affirmative form only. It is never used in the negative form. Example:
- a. M-ap malad.
or
M-a malad. I will be sick.
- b. M-ap la.
or
M-a la. I will be there.
- c. M-ap Pòtoprens.
or
M-a Pòtoprens. I will be in Port-au-Prince.
- d. M-ap konnen.
or
M-a konnen. I will know.

- e. M p-ap malad. I won't be sick.
- f. M p-ap la. I won't be there.
- g. M p-ap Pòtoprens. I won't be in Port-au-Prince.

C. The "Liaisons"

1. In Creole there are a few cases of liaison that can't be determined from the writing. They are French expressions that have persisted in Creole and must be learned with their French pronunciation. It's difficult to establish a complete list of such expressions; only usage will help the student become familiar with them all. Here are a few examples:

Written	Spoken
a. an arivan	(an n arivan) upon arriving

- | | | | |
|----|-----------|----------------------|----------------------------|
| b. | an akajou | (an n akajou) | made of mahogany |
| c. | byen aere | (byen n aere) | well-ventilated, wellaired |
| d. | an Aiti | (an n Aiti) | in Haiti |

2. Compare with the following "no liaison" Creole expressions:

- | | |
|-------------------------|---------------------|
| a. Kouman ou ye? | How are you? |
| b. devan oto-a | in front of the car |
| c. san anyen | without anything |
| d. yon bon oto | a good car |

D. Kouman fè

1. Kouman fè (lit., 'how done...') is an interrogative expression equivalent to the English 'How is it that ...?', 'How come...?'. Note that the subject may be placed either after kouman fè... or between kouman and fè.

- | | |
|---|--|
| Kouman fè ou la-a toujou? | How come you are still there? |
| Kouman ou fè la-a toujou? | How come you are still there? |
| Kouman fè madanm
nan pa vini jodi-a? | How come the woman hasn't
come today? |
| Kouman madanm nan
fè pa vini jodi-a? | How come the woman hasn't
come today? |

2. When the subject is a noun phrase with a dependent or a relative clause, the insertion between kouman and fè is also possible.

Kouman fè tout chofeù kamyon ki te pati yè yo pokò tounen?

Kouman tout chofeù kamyon ki te pati yè yo fè pokò tounen?

How come all the truck drivers who left yesterday haven't come back yet?

3. The verb phrase gen having no subject may not be inserted between kouman and fè, but must follow the interrogative expression.

Kouman fè gen tout kantite moun sa yo isit jodi-a?

How come there are so many people here today?

IV. LEKTU

Tape No. 13-C

A. Listen to and Repeat the Narration

Sa ki pase devan je ou se sa ou kab wè.

Se te yon fwa de nèg ki pa te genyen kòb pou yo manje. Yo rantre nan yon restoran. Epi yo manje byen manje. Leù yo fi-n manje, tou le de rete chita ap jplede. Yo plede, yo plede, yo plede.

Epi yonn di, 'Se mwen k-ap peye.' Lòt la di, 'Non, se mwen mènm k-ap peye, monchè.' Epi mèt restoran an di kon sa, 'Fò nou fè yon bagay.' Alò mesye yo di li, 'Bande je ou, epi ou a vire ak yon baton. Moun baton an tonbe sou li leù ou a rete se moun sa-a ki pou peye.' Mèt restoran an di, 'Bon, an-n fè sa.'

Epi mèt restoran an bande je li. Leù li fi-n bande je li, li vire ak baton an pluzyeù fwa. Men leù li rete, li ouvri je li, li pa wè. Nèg yo te kouri al fè rout yo.

Note on the Narration

Sa ki pase devan je ou se sa ou kab wè. 'You can only see what takes place in front of your eyes.' Haitians, particularly country people, are very fond of proverbs and riddles, and they use Creole proverbs frèquently to comment on specific events and situations. V. GRAMMAR NOTESA. Demonstrative Noun Marker

Compare:

pòt la	the door
pòt sa-a	this door
anplwaye-a	the employee
anplwaye sa-a	this employee

In Creole, the noun marker specifying nearness to the speaker (equivalent to English 'this') is formed by inserting -sa- between the noun and the definite noun marker. The use of the demonstrative noun marker thus presupposes the use of the definite noun marker:

Noun + demonstrative + definite.

Since the demonstrative noun marker sa ends with a vowel, the appropriate form of the definite noun marker which follows is -a-. Thus, in contrast to the definite marker which has four different forms depending on the last sound of the word, the demonstrative noun marker occurs in a single form.

B. Plural Demonstrative Noun Marker

The demonstrative noun marker is pluralized by replacing the definite noun marker -a which follows it by the plural marker yo. Compare:

Yo wè pòt la.
versus

They see the gate.

Yo wè pòt yo.

They see the gates.

Yo wè pòt sa-a.
versus

They see that gate.

Yo wè pòt sa yo.

They see those gates.

C. Verb Particle fèk 'to have just'

Compare the following paired sentences:

M manje.
versus

I have eaten.

M fèk manje.

I have just eaten.

The particle fèk indicates an action just completed. It may be preceded by the past perfective particle te and, occasionally, by the future and conditional particles a and ta respectively:

M te fèk rive leù ou rele mwen.

I had just arrived when you called me.

D. The Verb /se/

We have already seen that in the simplest Haitian Creole sentence construction the verb 'to be' is understood. In the following examples, it is expressed by se.

Sentence 1, Se yon bèl kay, is an impersonal construction which tends to highlight the adjective 'beautiful'. Such constructions are always in the 3rd person (singular or plural), and their attribute is preceded by a determiner and/or a modifier. In sentence 2, the pronoun subject is optional because it refers to people. Sentences 3 and 4 illustrate the pronominal qualities of the verb se where it precedes a tense marker (ta) or the negative particle (pa). In this kind of construction, the pronoun /li/ is embedded in the verb 'to be'.

|-------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1. Se yon bél kay. | It's a beautiful house. |
| 2. (Yo) se bon ti-moun. | They are good children. |
| 3. Se ta yon bél kay. | It would be a beautiful house. |
| 4. Se pa yon bél kay. | It's not a beautiful house. |

E. Kòb

Yon kòb may mean 'one cent' or 'some money', depending on the context.

Si ou ba-m yon kòb m-a kite ou ale.

(If you give me some money, I will let you go.)

To avoid ambiguity, most people say yon santim for 'one cent'.

Kòb also means 'fortune' and 'lot(s) of money'.

Li gen kòb. (He has a lot of money.)

When two heirs or rich people marry (each other), the Creole says

Se de kòb ki kontre (lit.: 'It is two fortunes that meet').

V. GRAMMAR NOTES

A. General Rules for Definite Articles

1. a after an oral vowel.

Ex: dlo-a, duri-a, pye-a, dèyè-a.

2. la after a non-nasal consonant.

Ex: kay la, liv la, depèch la, kamyonèt la.

3. an after a nasal vowel.

Ex: duven an, etudyan an, avyon an, chen an.

4. nan after a nasal consonant.

Ex: kazèn nan, vyann nan, madanm nan, changn nan.

B. Exceptions to Rules

1. When the sounds ou, i or u are preceded by a nasal consonant sound, the following definite article is an instead of a.

Ex: beùf ou-a, klou-a, frèdu-a, fizi-a.

but:

madanm ou an, beùf nou an, pitim ki touñu an, foumi an.

2. When the sound ou is preceded by a nasal vowel, or by a nasal consonant followed by i, u or ou, it sounds like /w/ and the following definite article is nan.

Ex: chen ou nan, duven ou nan, baton ou nan, etudyan ou nan, foumi ou nan, mu ou nan, jouroumou ou nan.

C. Pronunciation of yon/you

Yon/you is occasionally pronounced on after se or gen. It then has a long sound and only the consonant sound of the verbs remain.

D. The verb /se/

1. /Se/ represents the present tense of 'to be' when followed by an animate state of being (particularly profession and nationality).

Example:

M se profeseù.
Tout élèv yo se ameriken.
Pitit la se yon ti gason.
Yo se bon chyen.

I'm a teacher.
All the children are American.
The child is a little boy.
They are good dogs.

2. When the subject is expressed along with negation or a tense marker, the verb /se/ is lost.

Example:

Nou pa etudyan.
Nou te etudyan.

We are not students.
We were students.

E. The verb /ye/

The verb /ye/ is a form of 'to be' which must be preceded by a subject. It's always at the end of a dependent clause or a sentence. It can be modified by a tense marker or the negative pa. It occurs:

1. In the emphatic constructions with /se/ in its pronominal role.

Example:

Se isit (ke) m ye.
Se isit m te ye.

I'm here.
(lit.) It's here (that) I am.
I was here.
(lit.) It's here (that) I was.

2. In the interrogative constructions with ki + noun or noun phrase.

Example:

Ki moun ou ye?

Who are you?

Ki sa sa-a ye?

What is that?

Ki kote pitit la ye?

Where is the child?

3. In dependent clauses whether /ke/ 'that' is expressed or not.

Example:

Se bon ti-moun (ke) yo ye.

They are good children. (lit.)

It's good children (that) they are.

F. Summary: Representation of the verb 'to be'

Example:

M malad.

I'm sick.

Liv yo sou tab la.

The books are on the table.

Example:

Makdonal se ameriken.

MacDonald is an American.

Nou se bon elev.

We are good students.

Pitit la se yon ti gason.

The child is a little boy.

- b. subject + tense marker/pa + noun/noun phrase referring to an animate state of being.

Example:

Makdonal pa ayisyen.

Se + determiner and/or modifier + noun

Gaspard: What have they already taught you to do?

Arsene: The first week, they made me run until I was exhausted.

Gaspard: What did you do after that?

Arsène: The second week we drilled with the rifle. They made us walk in cadence, present arms, shoulder arms and fix bayonets.

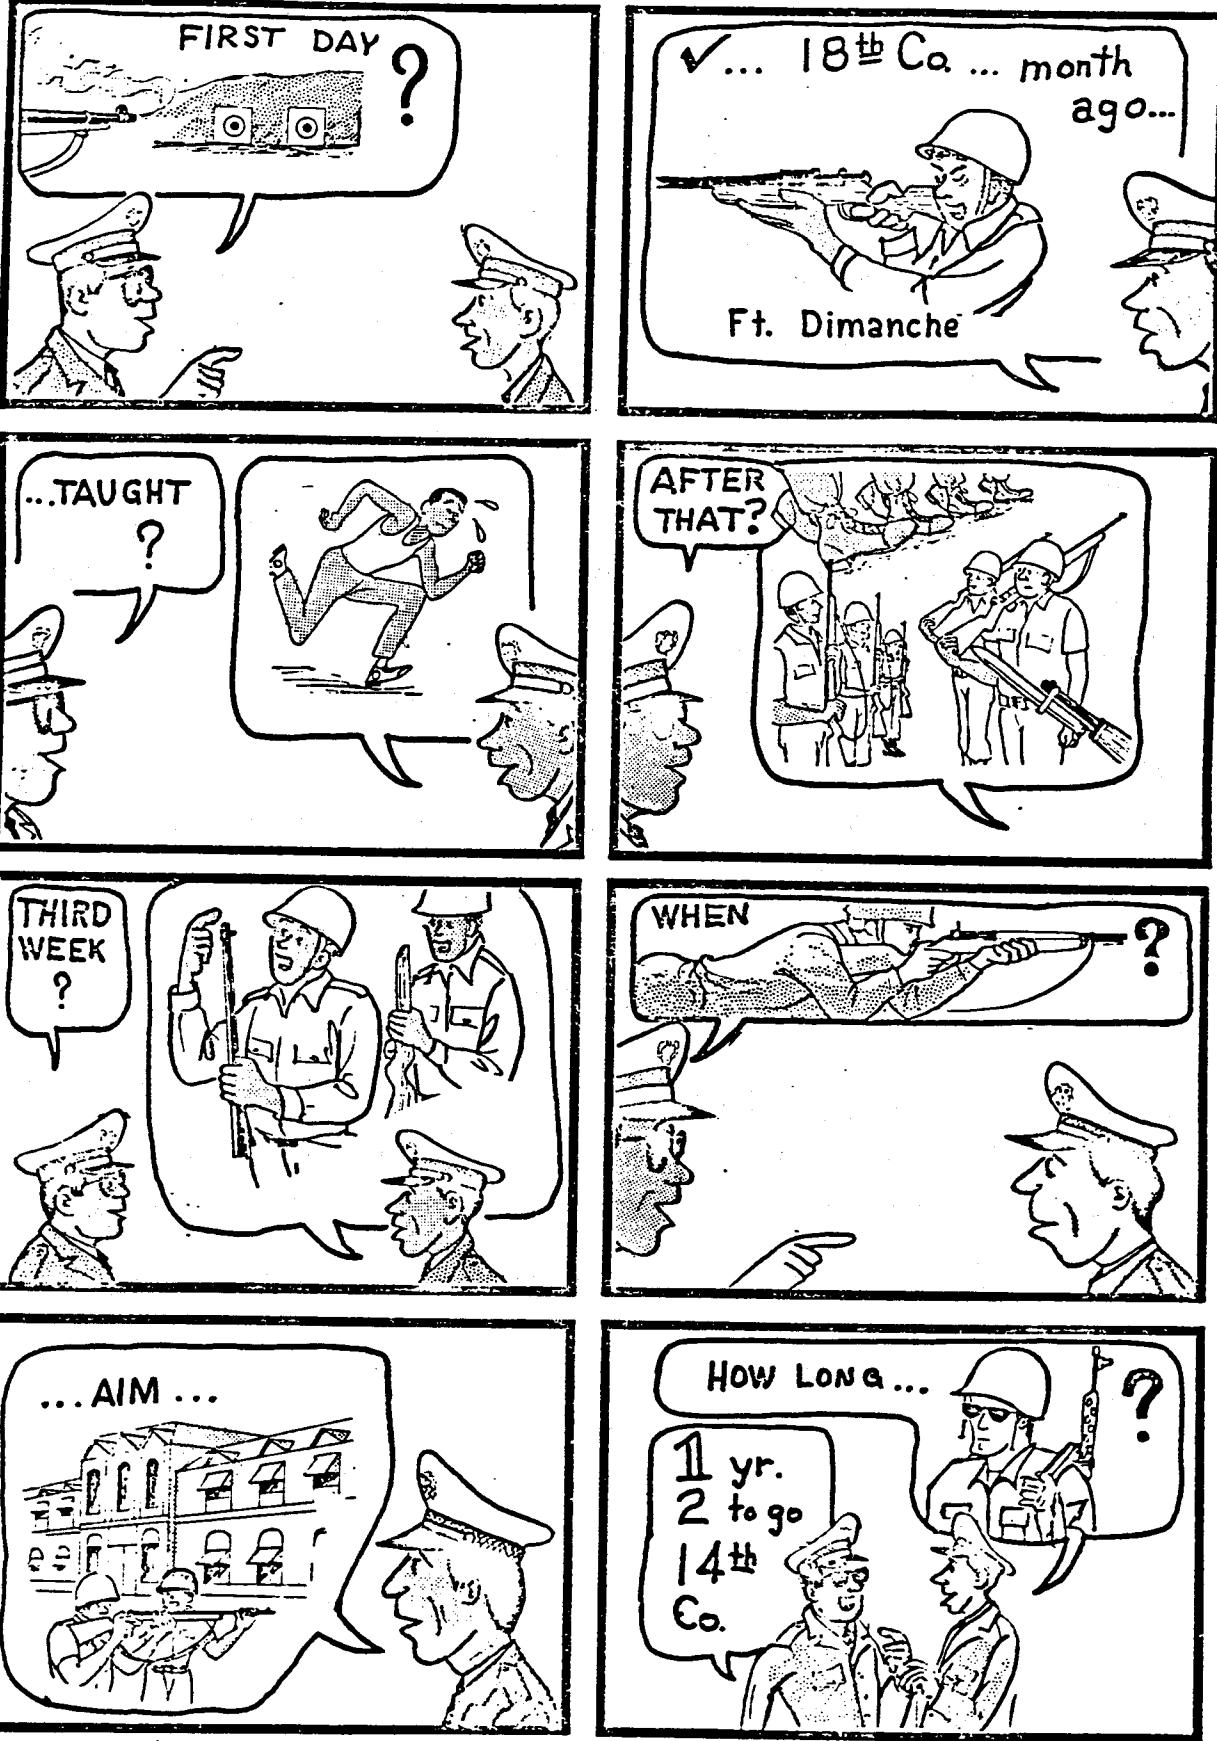

Gaspard: What kind of exercises did they make you do the third week?

Arsène: We learned how to disassemble rifles and machi-ne guns.

Gaspard: And when did you learn how to shoot?

Arsène: Just last week, they taught us how to aim in the Casernes yard. How long have you been in the Army?

IV. LEKTU

A. Koute epi repeete

Lame

Tout peyi genyen yon lame ki petèt piti ou ki petèt gro. Yon ti peyi pa bezwen yon gro lame. An Aiti lame-a pa bezwen gro, paske se yon ti peyi. Epi se yon peyi ki pa gen pou li fè lagè avèk lòt peyi.

Zam lame sèvi an Aiti pa gro zam. Peyi sa-a trò pòv pou achte gro zam ki koute chè; epi zam sa yo gaspiye anpil minisyon. Nan pwen lajan pou gaspiye nan bagay kon sa. Tou sa yo bezwen se fizi avèk lòt ti zam pou fè egzèsis.

Kòm lame-a piti an Aiti, li pa gen anpil òm, men li genyen mènm grad ak lame lòt peyi. Li genyen jeneral, li gen kolonèl, li gen majò, li gen kaptenn, li gen lyetnan, li gen sèjan, li gen kaporal, epi li gen gad. Gad yo se sòlda yo. Se pi piti grad ki gen nan lame-a. Pi gro grad la se jeneral.

Men sa lame-a fè an Aiti, se pa sa li fè nan lòt peyi. Nan lòt peyi, tankou an Frans, lame la pou fè lagè. An Aiti li la pou sa tou, men se li-mènm tou ki fè lapolis, trafik oto e mènm ponpye. Koulyè-a nou konnen ki travay lame-a fè an Aiti.

B. Kounyè-a, reponn kestyon m pral mande nou yo, souple:

1. Ki peyi ki pa gen lame? (nan pwen)
2. Ki lame yon ti peyi bezwen?
3. E yon gro peyi?
4. Eske yon ti lame gen anpil sòlda?
5. Aiti gen yon gro lame?

6. Eske lame d-Aiti gen anpil òm?
7. Pou ki sa Aiti pa bezwen yon gro lame?
8. Aiti gen pou li fè lagè avèk lòt peyi?
9. Eske lòt peyi fè lagè anpil?
10. Ak ki sa lame sèvi pou fè lagè?

11. Se gro zam seùlman ki genyen?
12. Ki zam lame d-Aiti genyen?
13. Pou ki sa l-pa gen gro zam?
14. Gro zam pa koute chè?
15. Eske gro zam yo sèvi anpil minisyon?

16. Gen lajan pou gaspiye an Aiti pou bagay kon sa?
17. Ki sa lame d-Aiti pi bezwen?
18. Sa pou lame fè ak fizi, ak ti zam?
19. Ozetazini gen yon gro lame?
20. Lame Ozetazini gen mènm grad avèk lame d-Aiti?

21. Lame an Aiti gen anpil òm?
22. Eske lame an Aiti gen mènm grad avèk lame nan lòt peyi?
23. Ki grad ki genyen nan lame d-Aiti?
24. Kolonèl se yon pi gro grad pase jeneral?
25. Ki grad ki pi gro: majò ou byen lyetnan?

26. Men kapitèn pi piti pase kolonèl?
27. E sèjan?
28. Eske kaporal pi gro grad pase sèjan?
29. Gad pi piti pase sòlda?
30. Pou ki sa?

31. Ki pi piti grad ki genyen nan lame-a?
32. E ki grad ki pi gro?
33. Lame an Aiti fè mènm travay ak lame nan lòt peyi?
34. Ki sa lame lòt peyi fè?
35. Yo fè lage an Aiti?

36. Si gen lagè, èske lame-a va fè lagè-a?
37. Ki lòt travay lame-a fè?
38. Ki moun ki fè lapolis?
39. Si ou nan ponpye, ou nan lame-a?
40. Nou konn travay lame an Aiti koulyè-a?

C. Independent Study

Go to the library and continue to read the books you have chosen. The reports will start on the first day of the 7th week. Be ready for them.

V. GRAMMAR NOTES

A. Negative Forms of genyen and gen

The negative of genyen or gen is pa genyen or pa gen.

An exception to this occurs in the impersonal third person singular or plural form, present tense, when no subject is expressed. The alternative form nan pwen may then be used. For example:

AFFIRMATIVE

Mwen gen yon bél oto.
Gen moun nan kay la.

Te gen anpil moun.
Li (someone) gen anpil lajan.

NEGATIVE

Mwen pa gen (genyen) yon bél oto.
Nan pwen moun nan kay la.

OR:

Pa gen moun nan kay la.
Pa te gen anpil moun.
Li pa gen anpil lajan.

B. Se pou sa and se pou tèt sa

Se pou sa and se pou tèt sa are interchangeable. They mean 'It's for that' or 'It's the reason why.' Example:

Manman m pa la se pou sa m pa ka sòti.
Manman m pa la se pou tèt sa m pa ka sòti.

My mother is not there; that is why I cannot go out.

C. Depi

1. In the expression depi maten 'since this morning', depi is followed by an additional syllabic /m/ sound before maten. Thus depi maten is read as depi-m maten.
2. When depi is followed by an expression of specific time, it means 'since' in a negative statement and 'the last time' in an affirmative statement. Example:

M manje depi (a) seteù.

The last time I ate was seven o'clock

OR:

I haven't eaten since seven o'clock.

3. When depi is followed by an expression of duration of time, it means 'for' and the verb is in the progressive form. Example:

L-ap manje depi deceù.

He has been eating for two hours.

Li t-ap manje depi deuzeù leù m rive.

He had been eating for two hours
when I arrived.

4. But note that certain verbs followed by depi are not in the progressive form because they express instantaneous actions, like chita 'to sit', pati 'to leave', leve-'to get up', monte 'to go up', mouri 'to die'. Example

Li mouri depi twa jou.

He has been dead for three days.

Li mouri depi sizeù maten an.

He has been dead since six o'clock this morning.

D. Depi ki leù, depi konben tan

1. The interrogative expressions depi ki leù and depikonben tan are expressed in English by 'how long'.

Example:

Depi ki leù ou ap manje?

How long have you been eating?

Depi konben tan ou ap manje?

2. But note that when a specific time is involved, only depi ki leù can be used.
Example:

Depi ki leù ou ap manje? When was the last time you ate?

3. Note also these passages:

Depi ki leù ou pa manje? How long since you've eaten?
Depi konben tan ou pa manje?

E. Pou konben tan

When there is an agreement or a contract, even if only implied, the interrogative for duration of time is pou konben tan. Example:

Pou konben tan ou lwe kay la. For how long did you rent the house?
M lwe-l pou ken/kenz jou. I rented it for two weeks.*

F. Pale de, pale d-

To speak about something or someone is expressed in Creole by pale de or pale d-.

Example:

M pale de Ti Andre.	I spoke about Ti Andre.
M pale de peyi blan yo.	I spoke about foreign countries.
M pale de sa m-ap fè.	I'm speaking about what I am doing.
M-a pale d-Aiti.	I'll speak about Haiti.

G. Fè

Fè is followed by a pronoun or noun plus another verb to express that the subject has something done by someone or is making someone do something. Example:

Ti-moun-yo pa vle manje; The children don't want to eat; their manman yo fè yo manje. mother makes them eat.

M pa konn fè soulye; m fè yon moun fè yon pè pou mwen.

I don't know how to make shoes; I had a pair made for me by someone.

*Note to the translation:

ken/kenz jou	two weeks
ui jou	one week

In Creole a length of time in days includes the following day, so "two weeks" would be expressed as "ken/kenz jou," i.e. fifteen days, and one week as "ui jou," "eight days."

IV. LEKTUA. NarrationAiti se yon bon peyi

Kounyè-a, nou tout konnen ke kreyòl se lang yo pale an Aiti. Se lang ke anpil ayisyen pito pale tou. Men petèt ke se pa nou tout ki konnen Aiti deja.

Aiti se yon bél peyi. M kwè sa tou. Gen yon bél chante ki di ke nan pwen pi bon peyi pase li. Touris vizite li anpil, paske otèl pa trò chè, pa fè frèdu ni pa fè trò cho; anyen pa chè, gen bon solèy, genyen bél jaden, epi moun yo trè bon tou.

Se otèl Kastèl Aiti ki gen anpil etaj, men yo tout gen anpil konfò avèk sal de ben ak douch nan chak chanm. Yo tout gen bél jaden nan lakou devan, ak nan lakou dèyè. Kèk otèl genyen gro pisi-n avèk tenis. Restoran yo sèvi bon manje ak bon duven, e yo pa mande anpil kòb. Men, si se plezi ou vle, ou ap jwenn anpil.

Magazen yo gen anpil bél bagay ki pa chè tankou Ozetazini. Mènm bagay ki sòti Ozetazini pa vann pi chè an Aiti, ni bagay ki sòti an Frans ak nan lòt peyi.

Chak jou touris antre, chak jou touris sòti. Yo toujou kontan, e chak fwa y-aprale, yo di ke se pou yo tounen ankò, e anpil tounen vre. Ayisyen ta renmen wè anpil lòt touris vini, paske peyi-a pòv anpil, e se seùl ti kòb ki antre prèske chak jou nan peyi-a.

V. GRAMMAR NOTES

A. Complex Sentences

1. Relative Clauses with ki

Observe the relationship of two Creole sentences:

M gen yon chanm.
Chanm nan vid.

I have a room.
The room is empty.

Both sentences share the noun phrase "noun marker + chanm". However, neither speakers of Creole nor speakers of English produce such a series of sentences to show this type of relationship; instead they conjoin the sentences into a single complex sentence with the use of the relative pronoun ki 'which', 'that'.

M gen yon chanm ki vid. I have a room which is empty.

The relative pronoun replaces the deleted noun of the second sentence, chanm. The second sentence has been embedded in the first one and modifies it.

When a relative clause is added to a sentence containing an adverbial complement (place, manner, time, etc.), it is inserted between the main clause and the adverbial complement.

Li mete alumèt la nan poch li.
Li mete alumèt ki te bon an nan poch li.

He puts the match in his pocket.
He put the match that was good in his pocket.

Notice that the definite determiner follows the entire noun phrase rather than the noun. Its form is determined by the last sound of the word that precedes it.

(See Grammar Note E, L.4 for the short form of the pronoun ki.)

2. Juxtaposition and Relative Clauses with ke

Another very frequently used way to incorporate one sentence into another is simply to juxtapose the embedded (modifying) sentence to the main sentence. This is often done in English as well. The embedded sentence is then the complement of the other.

M kwè.

I believe.

Li sòti.

He's left.

M kwè li sòti.

I believe he's left.

This type of embedding may also take the connecting word ke 'that', but it's less frequently used. In both cases if there is a definite determiner, it's placed at the end of the embedded relative clause.

L-ap pòte valiz la.

He's carryeng the suit case.

Li te blye valiz la.

He's forgotten the suitcase.

L-ap pòte valiz li te blye-a.

He's carryeng the suitcase
he had forgotten.

L-ap pòte valiz ke
li te blye-a.

He's carryeng the suitcase
that he's forgotten.

Ti Andre te rete nan ru Lafleù Duchèn. Yóu gro samdi, msye ap monte lakay li. Li te bezwen ale fè tèt li, men li rete pale ak de kanmarad nan kafou-a. Li tonbe bay odyans. Epi nan bay odyans, kòm ti Andre manteù anpil, li renmen bay manti, odyans ap mache.

Li di: 'Mesye, mwen sòt lavil bò waf la. Mwen wè yon seùl reken yo sòt peche. Bato pa kap rantre afòs bët la gro. Nan pwen kote pou yo pase. Anba-a plen moun k-ap gade. Genyen mènm k-ap vanse pou yo pran mòso reken'. Nèg la kontinue pale san rete. Li di: 'Mesye, se kon sa bagay la ye anba-a, wi! Lapolis, tout bagay!' Leù li fi-n di sa, mesye yo sezi. Epi chak moun ale lakay yo.

Vè pi ta, leù Andre fi-n manje lakay li, msye di: 'Bon, kounyè-a m pral kay kwafeù, m pral fè tèt mwen.' Kou li rive kay kwafeù-a, li chita. Mesye yo ap bay odyans. Kwafeù-a ap bay odyans tou. Fè cho. Tout moun ap fè van. Odyans mare seryeù. Yon lòt moman, youn nan kanmarad yo ki te rete ruèl Vag vi-n rive, epi li di: 'Mesye, nou konn nouvèl la? Kokenn nouvèl! Anba lavil la sa cho!'

-'Sa ki gen kon sa?'

'Apa yon kokenn reken ki vi-n ateri bò lanmè-a. Bato pa kab pase, anyen pa kab pase.' Leù yo tande sa, tout nèg kouri desann. Mènm bët kouri desann ale gade kote reken an ye. Epi Andre li-mènm ki te fi-n rakonte paròl la, ki bay blag la, li-mènm tou, li kouri al gade pou wè si se vre.

Notes on the Narration

Kon sa bagay la ye. Literally, 'such is the matter.' Here the speaker is affirming the veracity of his report.

Odyans mare. Mare means 'to tie down', 'to chain'. Here, it refers to the continuous chain of stories told by the men in the barber shop.

Sa cho. 'Things are hot.' That is, a lot of activity is taking place.

Apa. This is generally equivalent to the interrogative phrase 'isn't there' in English. Here it is best rendered as 'if there isn't a fantastically huge shark!'

Mènm bèt. 'Even animals (i.e., insects, etc.)'. This is to underscore how every person who heard the tall tale immediately ran off to the harbor to see the wondrous sight.

V. GRAMMAR NOTES

A. Gro

Gro in the expression gro samdi (or in any other day or time expression) means 'right in the middle of', 'right at', 'in the middle of.. Example:

Gro samdi maten an ou ap jwe.	You are playing right in the middle of a Saturday morning./In the middle of Saturday morning' And you're playing?
M pati gro lannuit	I left very late in the night.

B. Fè tèt

The expression fè tèt needs a subject and an object. Both may be the same person. Examples:

M pral fè tèt mwen kay kwafeù-a.	I'm going to get my hair cut at the barber's.
Kwafeù-a va fè tèt mwen demen.	The barber will cut my hair tomorrow.
M kapab fè tèt mwen, mwen-mènm .	I can cut my hair myself.

Notice the translations: to get a haircut and to cut one's hair.

C. Plural of Msye, Madanm

Generally the plural is indicated by the determiner yo after the noun. The noun itself doesn't change. Two exceptions are the following cases of direct address:

Singular:

Bonjou msye.	Good morning, sir.
Bonjou madanm.	Good morning, madam.

Plural:

Bonjou mesye.	Good morning, gentlemen.
Bonjou medam.	Good morning, ladies.

Despite the change in the noun, the determiner still indicates the number, but not direct address:

Msye-a wè madamm nan.	The gentleman saw the lady.
Mesye yo wè medam yo	The gentlemen saw the ladies.

D. Verbs Used Independently and as Auxiliaries

1. Tonbe 'to fall'

tonbe + a verb means 'to start', 'to begin', (as if it looks like there would be no end) Example:

M tonbe ak etudyan yo.	I fell down with the students.
M tonbe pale ak etudyan yo.	I started to speak to the students.

The auxiliary tonbe gives also the idea that the following action is a long one. M tonbe pale ak etudyan yo means not only that 'I started to speak to the students', but that it was a long talk.

2. Kouri 'to run'

ale	'to go'
vini	'to come'
kouri ale	'to go in a hurry (go running)'
kouri vini	'to come in a hurry (come running)'

Examples:

Li kouri al manje lakay li.	He hurried home to eat .
Yo kouri vi-n pòte lajan an.	They hurried to bring the money.

3. Modal auxiliaries: sòti, fini, vini

- a. In addition to their use as main verbs in sentences, the verbs sòti 'to go out', fini 'to finish' and vini 'to come' are used as modal auxiliaries to modify the meaning of predicates. In this way, they have functions similar to fèk 'to have just' and kapab 'to be able to'. Like these they also may be preceded by verb particles compatible with their meaning. When they occur as modal auxiliaries, sòti, fini, and vini convey a meaning similar to their base meaning.

M-ap sòti aswè-a.	I'm going out this evening.
M sòt manje.	I've just eaten. (lit. I leave from eating.)
M te sòt manje.	I had just eaten.
M fini travay la.	I finished the job.
M fi-n manje.	I've just eaten. (lit., I finish eating.)
M-ap fini manje.	I'm in the process of finishing eating.
M vi-n lakay ou.	I came to your house.
M vi-n manje.	I come to eat.
M-a vi-n manje.	I'll come to eat.

- b. When they are used as modal auxiliaries, these verbs normally lose their final vowel. Thus, you should pronounce them as sòt, fi-n, vi-n. When used as an auxiliary, vi-n often has the meaning 'to become'. Example:

Li vi-n fatige.	He became tired.
Yo te vi-n achte ronm.	They came to buy rum.

- c. Fèk, sòt, and fi-n have similar meaning but differ as follows: fèk implies more recent completion of an action than sòt; as compared to sòti, fini indicates more specifically completion of an action. Sometimes fèk precedes sòti for reinforcement. Example:

M sòti manje ka Pedro.	I'm back from eating at Pedro's.
M fèk sòti manje ka Pedro.	I have just eaten at Pedro's.

E. A/an,

A, 'at', prep. can become an only before midi.

a dezeù	at two o'clock
a/an midi	at noon

Cultural Note

Bargaining

In Haiti, there is room for bargaining. It is almost always possible to buy anything for less than the asking price. Therefore, the non-native is well-advised to learn how to establish a reasonable price or jus pri through bargaining.

The jus pri is not determined in one step alone. "Negotiations" often go through four or five steps, as follows:

1. You are given the asking price.
2. You ask for the 'real price' or vre pri.
3. You are given the vre pri.
4. You ask to hear the jus pri.
5. Then you make a 'final offer', the dènye pri.
6. Even this is not the end. You ask for a 'special price for me', a pri pa-m.

As the price goes down, the merchant's temper goes up. You may be called some dirty names, but you probably won't understand them and they shouldn't discourage you. For if you persevere and the merchant becomes increasingly unhappy, you know you are coming ever closer to a fair price. And if, after the deal, you are followed for two or three blocks by a most unhappy merchant hurling invectives at you because you "ruined him", you know you got a fair price--and it still may not be the lowest he would go.

In most stores, however, there is no bargaining. They have only a pri fiks, 'fixed price.'

IV. LEKTUA. NarrationVwayaj

Vwayaje se bon bagay. Moun ki vwayaje anpil konnen anpil bagay. Yon peyi pa mènm avek yon lòt, paske sa ou jwenn nan youn ou pa jwenn ni nan lòt la; se pou sa ke leù ou konnen de peyi ou kab mete ansanm tou sa ou aprann nan tou le de; sa fè ou konnen plis bagay pase moun ki pa vwayaje. Donk se pa difisil pou konprann ke yon moun ki wè twa peyi konnen plis bagay ankò. Plis ou vwayaje se plis ou konnen. Men, konnen se pa tout. Leù ou konnen, ou konprann lòt moun ak moun lòt peyi pi byen. Ou konprann tou pou ki sa yo pa kab mènm avèk ou, e se lakay yo mènm pou ou aprann ni pi byen.

Pou ou renmen lòt moun, fò ke ou konprann yo anvan. Epou ou konprann yo, fò ou wè ke yo pa mènm avè ou, ni yo pa kapab mènm avè ou. Nou wè pou ki sa vwayaje se bon bagay: se paske vwayaje fè konnen, konnen fè konprann e konprann fè renmen. Si tout moun te ka vwayaje nan tout peyi, youn ta konnen lòt, youn ta konprann lòt, youn ta renmen lòt.

Anpil moun vwayaje nan avyon paske avyon pi rapid pase tout bagay, e li pa fè ou pèdu tan nan rout. Tout peyi ki vle touris vini, fò ke yo fè gran aeropò ki kab pran gro avyon. Fo yo gen bon otèl ki gen konfo e ki bay bon manje.

Leù yon touris pa pale lang peyi-a, li renmen jwenn moun ki pale lang ni. Touris vwayaje pou plezi yo, men tout moun pa touris. Anpil lot moun vwayaje pou yon travay, men yo kap pran kèk plezi tou.

Si nou kapab, annou vwayaje anpil pou nou ka konnen anpil lòt moun. Kon sa n-a ka konprann yo byen e n-a renmen yo anpil tou.

V. GRAMMAR NOTES

A. Direct and Indirect Object

Creole verbs may take a direct or an indirect object or both, and they follow the verb, as in English. Compare the following sentences.

1. When the verb has only a direct object.

M rele li.	I call him.
M rele pitit la.	I call the child.

2. When the verb takes both direct and indirect objects, the indirect always precedes the direct and comes immediately after the verb.

M-a montre ou liv la	I'll show you the book.
M-a montre ou li.	I'll show it to you.

3. Certain verbs such as pòte 'to bring', voye 'to send' require the verb bay/ban/ba inserted as a preposition in front of the indirect object. In this case, the direct object immediately follows the verb.

Pòte li ba mwen.	Bring it to me.
Ou a voye yo bay papa li.	You will send them to his (her) father.

B. Interrogative ki + noun

We have seen that ki may also be used as an interrogative adjective equivalent to English 'which' or 'what'.

Ki chanm ou ta vle?	Which room do you want?
Ki kamyonet m ta dwe pran?	Which camionette should I take?
Ki metye ou?	What is your profession?
Ki pri li?	What is its price?

When the noun modified by the interrogative ki is subject of the sentence, the relative pronoun ki must also be used.

Ki chanm ki byen aere?
Ki chofeù ki pale franse?

Which room is well ventilated?
Which driver speaks French?

C. The Comparative

The comparative is expressed by the addition of pi before an adjective and plis after a verb.

Liv sa-a pi bon.
Li manje plis.

This book is better.
He eats more.

When the two terms of the comparison are expressed, the constructions are as follows:

1. See Grammar Notes, L. 17, B.

Nou pi ro pase mwen. You are taller than I.

2. Noun + verb + plis + object + pase + noun (Noun Phrase/
Pronoun) (if any) (Noun Phrase/
Pronoun)

Nou manje plis pase mwen. You eat more than I.

Nou manje plis vyann pase mwen. You eat more meat than I.

D. The Superlative

The superlative is expressed by pi or plis in the Se... construction where ki is mandatory with an expressed subject.

Se + pi + attribute...
Se + subject + ki + pi...
Se + subject + ki + verb + plis...

Compare:

Se pi bon ti-moun ou ka jwenn.	They are the best children you can find.
Se yo ki pi bon.	They are the best.
Se yo ki manje plis .	They are the ones who eat the most.

E. Ordinal Numerals

Ordinal numerals are formed by adding -yèm to cardinals. The following numbers are formed the same way with minor changes.

CARDINALS

twa (3) kat (4) sis (6)
set (7)
neuf (9)

F. Modal Auxiliary: mèt

Ou mèt bwè si ou vle.

You may drink if you want.

Ou mèt monte nan chanm ou.

You may go up to your room.

Tape No. 20-A

A. Koute epi repeete:

Tout touris ki vini an Aiti debake Pòtoprens, paskè se Pòtoprens seùlman ki genyen yon gran aeropò intènasyonal (international). Yo rele aeropò-a Mai Gate, e se la Makdonal te debake. Ayisyen renmen wè touris, paskè peyi-a pòv, e chak touris pòte yon ti lajan kòm nan tout peyi. Leù touris yo debake kon sa-a, epi leù y-ap pati tou, anpil ti machann kouri sou yo pou vann yo tout kalite bagay. E kòm bagay yo pa chè, chak touris kab achte anpil bagay avèk ti lajan li pòte-a.

Men yo pa gaspiye kòb yo. Yo konnen fò yo fè jus pri. Y-aprann sa depi anvan ke yo vi-n an Aiti. Si yon machann mande senk goud pou yon bagay, touris yo mande machann nan si li pa vle twa goud. Kèk fwa mènm yo mande-l si-l pa vle de goud. Makdonal te kwè li te kapab bay disèt dola pou chanm nan. Men, manadjè-a di li non. Yo gen pri fiks. An Aiti se pou ou toujou fè jus pri.
